4. Connect the console to the master system. Click Create Image > Next > A Master Image. Follow the instructions of the Master Image Creator wizard to configure and launch the imaging operation. The image can be used as a network bootable or bootable media such as a USB drive or on removable media such as a DVD.

2.5.3 Deployment

This section illustrates the Acronis components functionality by the example of deployment that you start manually. For details about the steps of deployment, see "Deploying a master image" (2.5.3). This procedure presumes that you have installed Acronis Snap Deploy 5 Management Console and created a master image.

To perform deployment

1. Install Acronis Snap Deploy 5 License Server. Import licenses to the license server. Install Acronis Snap Deploy 5 OS Deployment Server.
2. Do one of the following:
 - Create bootable media (either Acronis media or WOPF-based media) with Acronis Snap Deploy 5 Agent.
 - OR
 - Install Acronis PXE Server, connect the console to the PXE server, and then upload Acronis Snap Deploy 5 Agent.
3. Depending on your choice in the previous step, boot the target machines into Acronis Snap Deploy 5 Agent from the bootable media or from the PXE server. You must have a DHCP server or configure the network settings of the target machines manually to enable the target machines to connect to Acronis Snap Deploy 5 OS Deployment Server.
4. Connect the console to Acronis Snap Deploy 5 OS Deployment Server. Go to the Machine view.
5. Make sure that the target machines are displayed in the list and have the Ready state. This means that the machines are connected and ready for deployment.
